Praise, O Zion, your Savior;
praise your leader and shepherd
in hymns and canticles.

As much as possible, so much as you dare:
for he is greater than all praise,
nor can you praise him enough.

A special theme of praise,
–the living bread and life–
is proposed today:

That which at the table of the sacred Supper

was given to the group of twelve brethren is not to be doubted.

Let our praise be full, be sonorous,
be pleasing, be fitting,
jubilation of the soul:
for this is the solemn day
on which is commemorated the first institution of this banquet.

At this table of the new King,
the new Paschal rite of the new law ends the ancient Passover.
The new supplants the ancient,
truth puts to flight the shadow,
day banishes night.

What Christ did at Supper,
the same he commanded to be done
in remembrance of him.
Taught by his sacred institution,
we consecrate bread and wine
into the sacrifice of salvation.

A dogma is given to Christians:
that bread is changed into flesh,
and wine into blood.
What you do not understand, what you do not see,
a lively faith confirms
in the supernatural order.

Under different species,
different in appearance only, and not in reality,
wondrous things lie hidden.
Flesh is food, blood is drink;
yet Christ remains whole
under each species.

By the partaker not dispersed,
unbroken, undivided:
he is received whole.
One receives him; a thousand receive him:
as much as they, so does that one:
nor is the One partaken of consumed.

The good partake him; the evil partake,
however, with unequal effect:
of life or of ruin.

Death is for the evil; life for the good:
behold, of equal partaking,
how different the result is.

When the Sacrament is finally broken,
doubt not, but remember,
that there is as much hidden in a fragment,
as there is in the whole.

There is no division of the reality;
of the species only is there a fracture, whereby neither the state nor stature
of the One signified is diminished.

Behold, the bread of angels
is made the food of pilgrims,
truly the bread of children,
not to be cast to dogs.

It was prefigured in other forms:
when Isaac was immolated,
when the Paschal Lamb was slain,
when manna was given to the forefathers.

O Good Shepherd, true bread,
O Jesus, have mercy upon us;
feed us, protect us,
make us to see good things
in the land of the living.

You, who knows all things and can do all things,
who here feeds us mortals,
make us there be your table-guests,
the co-heirs, and companions
of the heavenly citizens.
Amen. Alleluia.
